

List of Tables, Figures and Boxes

Tables

Table 1.1	Categories of global citizenship identified by Oxley and Morris (2013) based on prevailing literature	36
Table 1.2	Types of Global Citizenship Education by Gaudelli and Heilman (2009)	37
Table 3.1	Number of institutions, teachers and learners of the Japanese language in the Republic of Korea, China and Mongolia	94
Table 5.1	Role of agriculture in South Asian economies	140
Table 6.1.	Teaching/learning approaches in all coded documents (number of references)	197
Table A.1	Overall structure of the coding scheme	230

Figures

Figure 0.1	Asia: The diverse continent	4
Figure 0.2	Countries covered by this study	6
Figure 0.3	Overview of the drafting process	7
Figure 0.4	Overall governance structure of the study	8
Figure 1.1	Percentage of instructional hours allocated to core and non-core subjects Grades 1-9	32
Figure 1.2	The ladder of sustainable development	39
Figure 2.1	Heatmaps across 22 countries at a glance	44
Figure 2.2	The prevalence of the concept ‘conflict resolution’	46
Figure 2.3	The prevalence of the concept ‘climate change’	48
Figure 2.4	The prevalence of the concept ‘human resource development’	49
Figure 2.5	The prevalence of the concept ‘gender equality’	52
Figure 2.6	The prevalence of the concept ‘freedom and civil liberties’	53
Figure 2.7	The prevalence of the concept ‘multiculturalism’	55
Figure 3.1	References to ‘critical thinking’ and ‘creative thinking’ in primary and secondary subject curricula across China, Japan and the Republic of Korea	64
Figure 3.2	References to ‘nation as privileged referent of identity’ in primary and secondary subject curricula in China, Japan and the Republic of Korea	78
Figure 3.3	References to ‘culture of peace and non-violence’ in primary and secondary subject curricula in China, Japan and the Republic of Korea	81
Figure 3.4.	References to ‘respect/appreciation for diversity’ in primary and secondary subject curricula in China, Japan and the Republic of Korea	85

Figure 3.5	References to select categories related to global citizenship in primary and secondary subject curricula in China, Japan, and the Republic of Korea	91
Figure 3.6	The number of high school students learning second foreign languages in Republic of Korea (based on the Statistical Yearbook of Education, 2012)	92
Figure 5.1	Government expenditure on education in South Asia (% of total government expenditure)	140
Figure 5.2	Excerpts from the Indian Grade 8 Social and Political Life textbook	148
Figure 6.1	Share of commodities in total exports in Central Asia and Mongolia	170
Figure 6.2	Economic growth trends in Central Asia and Mongolia	172
Figure 6.3	Introduction of New State Education Standards (SES) in Kazakhstan, Kyrgyzstan, Mongolia and Uzbekistan	181
Figure A.1	The horizontal axis of the coding scheme	231
Figure A.2	Sample coding (excerpts from coding of Basic Education Act, 2006, Japan)	233

Boxes

Box 1.1	The 14 coding categories	32
Box 1.2	What is transformative education?	35
Box 2.1	Nine concepts (sub-categories) most prevalent in documents analysed	44
Box 3.1	Main textbooks consulted for the present study	69
Box 3.2	Curricular treatment of sex education	97
Box 4.1	Emphasis on peace in Cambodian policy and curricular documents	111
Box 4.2	State directives and national and other identities in the Philippines	122
Box 4.3	Tensions and convergences between 'traditional' and ESD/GCED concepts and values in Southeast Asia	128
Box 5.1	Examples of references to human resource development in education policy and curriculum frameworks in South Asia	142
Box 5.2	Improving science and mathematics teaching	152
Box 5.3	Examples of references to gender equality in education policy and curriculum frameworks in South Asia	153
Box 5.4	References to human rights in Nepal's School Sector Development Plan (SSDP), 2016-2023	155
Box 5.5	Developing national identity through education: The cases of education policy in Bangladesh and Pakistan	158
Box 6.1	Promoting multiculturalism in Kazakhstan	193
Box A.1	Measures taken to reduce the level of subjectivity and ensure inter-coder reliability	228